What it is?

As a Pentecostal preacher's kid in small town Canada, Terry Law ran from the ministry and towards whatever adventure and trouble he could find, as fast and as hard as he could. As a man fully submitted to God? Well, some things never change. 'Storm Chaser: The Terry Law Story' chronicles the globe-trotting and oftentimes harrowing adventures of the World Compassion/Terry Law Ministries founder and stormchaser as he shares the Gospel, evades the KGB and Al Qaeda and fights for the religious liberty of Christians in some of the most dangerous places in the world.

The book encourages and calls believers to a life of obedience, action and evangelism in an increasingly divided and hostile world.

Why is it important?

- Rapidly escalating hostilities and events around the world directed at Christians, Christianity
- Millions of Christians increasingly unsure if/when/where/how to share their faith in Christ, due to cultural intolerance and concerns for their safety
- Christians must engage, run towards storms, armed with the Gospel. Many (most?) are hesitant.
- Growing secular/cultural movement to silence those of faith, eliminate God from the public square will require Christians to stand confidently with Christ in the center of the storm, not run for shelter
- Growing hesitancy towards international missions/travel due to safety concerns
- Increasing need to cultivate a confident, assertive generation of young believers, motivated towards global evangelism

Who wrote it?

James Gilbert is the author of Storm Chaser: The Terry Law Story, and President of James Gilbert Ministries, in Gainesville, Florida, which he founded in 1983. A powerful communicator both as a public speaker and author, he has ministered on five continents and in numerous 'closed' nations and has conducted teaching missions to 61 nations (most recently in Cuba). He began his 45-year career in ministry as the youngest member of Living Sound, the original musical missions team founded by Terry Law and Larry Dalton in 1969.

Gilbert has authored four books, the first being How a Man Stands Up for Christ, published by Bethany House Publishers in 1996. He also co-authored two books with Dr. Terry Law - The Power of Praise and Worship (Destiny Image, 2008) and The Hope Habit (Charisma House, 2010).

What others are saying about Terry and the book

"Terry Law has spent a lifetime facing 'storms' of the most dangerous kind, both in America and abroad. He has risked his life for the sake of others, and by doing so he has changed countless lives and saved countless more. His impact is international, and has earned him the status of Christian elder statesman, with much to teach us all about facing and growing through conflict."

-United States Senator James M. Inhofe

"Some people preach their life's message. Others produce great works of art to make their message known. Some, though, live so courageously that their story is their message. Such a life is Terry Law's, and we are privileged to have that life captured in this marvelous book."

-Bestselling author Stephen Mansfield

"His life and ministry is not for the faint of heart. As a boyhood friend ... I saw his love of an adrenalin kick, taking on something dangerous. This made him vulnerable but more importantly, available. Restive ministry simply wouldn't meet his driving desire to do something outside the bounds of the usual."

As you read this remarkable account, a narrative which touches but a few of the demanding and dangerous moments of his public witness, be reminded that his heart is rather simple. It is that of a father: his love for his children is life shaping; his passion to tell of the power of Jesus is overwhelming; his willingness to risk is often beyond our understanding."

This I know - Terry wants us to see that if this Canadian prairie preacher's son can be used to bring life and hope to others, we too can rise above what might be disabling, empowered by the Spirit and impassioned by the love of our Father."
