PR by the Book Values

We Move Fast... Due to the short-term nature of our campaigns, we work at a fast pace; and sometimes we're sprinting. But, it's fun and we enjoy a fast-paced environment; otherwise, we would be bored.

We Listen... Management and owners value feedback from our team. In order for our company to succeed, we need a team that provides feedback to fellow team members, managers, and owners. We can only improve by hearing what we should be doing more of and things we should be doing less of within the confines of our company culture.

Flexibility... This firm was built around life/work balance and flexibility for its owners and team members. Our company is always evolving. We change policies as needed so we're flexible as an organization but we also require our team to be flexible.

We've got your back... Our team is our most important resource. We have to take care of our team first. Authors can be tough, it's just the nature of this business. However, if the line ever gets crossed, we jump in and take care of our team.

We're Passionate... We're passionate about books and the power of words to influence people. Our clients want to connect with us and our team, the bridge for that connection is passion for books and their specific project.

Let's have some fun... It's not all just work. We get the entire team together once a year to have some fun, team building, business planning, brainstorming, and to be tourists in Austin for a few days. We value camaraderie through meetings, Slack, and lifting each other up.
